A NOTE FROM MATT QUINN

"We are drawn to the City of Light and continually inspired by the city's history, design, and people. The culture is one that never ceases to amaze. I am fortunate enough to represent Galerie des Lampes in the United States, being gifted Parisian inspiration every time I interact with this stunning lighting. Each is made in small French workrooms by artisans specializing in a single skill, turning out the finest in handmade goods. The newest introductions continue in this tradition but explore additional forms and materials - fringe, filigree, repoussé, pleating, ruffles, linen, raffia, swoops, and loops. The combination of materials and the execution of the designs are an embodiment of why we all continue to be inspired by everything in Paris. I have also designed new dining tables for IATESTA STUDIO that embody Paris' spirit, marrying materials and function to effortless results. This includes a new standard finish Titanium Walnut for the Bennett Table to celebrate its 20th Anniversary. This table holds special meaning as it was the very first piece of furniture I designed for the company."
